Archetypal Astrology and Alchemy as a Guide to Psychospiritual Transformation

Keiron Le Grice, PhD

Astrology was of lifelong interest to C.G. Jung, both professionally and personally. He employed it as an aid to his analytical work with his patients, and saw it as the “sum of all the psychological knowledge of antiquity.” The burgeoning interest in the field in the late nineteenth century and beyond was a compensatory response, Jung thought, to the rationality championed after the Enlightenment and to the decline of religion in the modern Western world. For astrology offers something the modern age is sorely lacking: the sense of participation in a cosmic order, in which individual lives—even the intimate depths of our personal experience—are meaningfully related to the universe at large, mapped by the shifting cycles and configurations of the planets.

Over the last thirty years, my work has helped to establish and develop an archetypal approach to astrology. At the same time, I have been especially interested in understanding experiences of deep psychospiritual transformation in the context of the evolution of consciousness and civilization. In this series of lectures, these two areas of interest are brought together. In the accompanying book, The Lion Will Become Man, I share details of my own experience of a period of psychological crisis and transition, which I approach chiefly through a Jungian understanding of alchemy. In the lectures, in reference to the book, I will then explain how one might use astrology to illuminate experiences of psychological transformation. The overarching aim is to convey something of the potential value of archetypal astrology as a cosmological perspective that can offer a source of mythic and psychological orientation for our lives.

“Eranos” Live

13:00–14:45

Lecture

Guest speaker: Dr. Riccardo Bernardini

Title: “Eranos: A Retrospective Look at its Contribution to Analytical Psychology and a Future Glimpse into the Study of Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn’s Art”

15:00–16:45

Performance

“Eranos”

The play takes place in August 1947 during the week-long Eranos Conference hosted annually by Olga Fröbe-Kapetyn. The stillness of the setting on the shores of Lago Maggiore near Ascona, Switzerland, and the beauty of the lake and surrounding mountains create a magical aura around the conference center. The Round Table under the trees and near the shore of the Lake is where all the action of the play takes place. To the left of the Table stands the carved stone with the inscription, Genio loci ignoto - “to the unknown genius of this place.”

Traumdeutung nach C.G. Jung

- Träume überbringen uns Botschaften, die verstanden werden wollen. Sie reagieren auf Erleben und Gedanken aus dem Wachleben. Sie berichten von Gefühlen, die im Moment nicht wahrgenommen werden. Sie machen uns auf die tiefen Gründe für unser Verhalten aufmerksam.
- Ob bedrückend, verwirrend oder wunderschön, Träume sind eine heilsame und reichhaltige Quelle an Erkenntnissen über uns selbst.
- Die Träume haben ihre eigene Sprache; sie sprechen in Bildern ähnlich wie Märchen, Sagen und Religionen aller Zeiten. Wenn wir ihren Hinweisen und unseren Einfällen dazu nachgehen, werden verborgene Kräfte freigelegt.
- Welche Anregung will mir der Traum geben? Warum gerade jetzt?

“For two personalities to meet is like mixing two different chemical substances: if there is any combination at all, both are transformed.”

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Analytic Process

This introductory course will review the analytic process looking specifically at what happens during the analytic session; what we do and what we do not do. We will look at how central the transcendent function is to the process and how it influences the knowledge and skills needed to work as an Analytical Psychologist.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Transference and Countertransference in the Therapeutic Relationship

A basic component of the therapeutic relationship is the process of transference and countertransference. Invisible factors evoke a mutual transformation. Analysts can be unconsciously affected by their patients; this is important for the diagnostic process. All transference projections, linked to personal experience, can activate the analyst's countertransference. This joint creation of patient and analyst will be discussed.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

A Non-European View of the Analytical Relationship

The analytic process is essentially dialectical. The analysand needs the "Other (analyst)" in order to become more conscious. Depth psychology was founded on observation of the Western psyche. Just as one becomes conscious of oneself through the encounter with the Other, the analytical relationship can also be explored and illuminated from the perspective of a non-Western psyche.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Attachment and Intersubjectivity in the Analytic Relationship

Some questions we will be pondering include: What purposes do these two systems of human relatedness serve in analysis? Why are discernment between and the overlap of them both important? How do they serve our own understanding of ourselves as well as that of our clients?

01 09 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Judith Savage, DPsy

Thursday

14 September | 13:00–14:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

01 10 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

John Hill, MA

Thursday

14 September | 15:00–16:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

01 11 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Allan Guggenbühl, Dr. phil.

Friday

15 September | 13:00–14:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

12 12 Lecture - Practical Case

John Desteian, JD, DPsy

Friday

15 September | 15:00–16:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Ego/Self Dynamics within the Analytic Field

Jung's notion of the Self as the center of the psyche orients any psychotherapeutic activity away from an exclusive emphasis upon ego solutions and towards a relationship with the deepest aspect of the patient's inner being or "soul". Jungian analysis is a dynamic interplay between the demands of the outer and inner worlds, enacted in the analytic field between analyst and analysand.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Relationship and Transference in Dream and Fantasy

A lecture dealing with the history of transference and counter-transference, both Freudian and Jungian, with vignettes on defence, projective-identification, mutual transference and archetypal transference.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Discovering Jung: Unraveling the Key Significances for Psychotherapy

Jungian psychology applies to a wide range of topics and challenges. This lecture will concentrate on the ideas which have proven to be helpful to understand and guide a therapeutic process.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Transference or Relationship: A False Dichotomy?

This lecture examines the give and take in the analytic discourse and what is revealed in the interactions between analyst and analysand.

01 15 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Andrew Fellows, PhD

Tuesday

19 September | 13:00–14:45

26 September | 13:00–14:45

3 October | 13:00–14:45

Gaia, Psyche and Deep Ecology: Synergy and Consilience for Metanoia

Synergies between Jungian psychology, systems dynamics, Gaia theory, dual-aspect monism and deep ecology can prepare us to face the existential threat of the Anthropocene. The resulting transition from development to individuation in our personal psychology translates into an urgently needed metanoia away from our collective ecocidal anthropocentrism and denial through nostalgia, inertia and hubris. The resulting consilience lays the foundations of a radically different worldview with which to address global heating, the sixth mass extinction, and other unprecedented challenges of our time.

Susan Schwartz, PhD

Wednesday

20 September | 13:00–14:45

'As-If' Personality: Imposter Syndrome and Illusions in the Mirror

The 'as-if' person faces a conundrum to hide or expose the truth of who they are. Feelings of loss, curtailment, and alienation are prevalent yet concealed with glitzy ego, persona/imposter images. Intimacy and emotional presence are difficult. Those living 'as-if' are estranged from their true selves, hiding the shadow at the cost of their desires. There is a haunting sense of a lack of authenticity. Existence is singular. Very possibly we know these struggles as they are part of us.

05 19 Lecture - Ethnology & Psychology

Katarzyna Wach, Mgr. Psych., Soc. Psych.

Friday

22 September | 10:00–11:45

Cultural Complexes and Body Politics of Gender

Through looking at the Greek myth of silent Philomela and her transformation, this lecture explores the connection with the dark feminine and using one's own voice in the redemption of trauma.

01 20 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Susan Schwartz, PhD

Friday

22 September | 13:00–14:45

Narcissus and Echo in the Current Era

How do we see the other if we do not see ourselves? The myth of Narcissus reveals the inner conflict and psychological distress of narcissists. The complexity beyond the ego/persona reveals lack of self-love seen in dreams and misattunements in relationships influenced from early parental absence. Subjects include aging, the influence of social media, and perfect body image. The unconscious incorporates the dissociated personality parts in the self, reflecting the multiplicity of the psyche.

11 22 Open Seminar - Individuation

Panel: “Individuation and Synchronicity: Personal and Cultural Dimensions,” with Murray Stein (chair), Ann Li, John Desteian, Bernard Sartorius, Brigitte Egger

The panel will speak on the topic of individuation and synchronicity followed by discussion with the audience.

Zurich Lecture Series Postlude

In Search of the Re-enchanted World - From Fludd and Kepler to Jung and Pauli and Beyond: About Synchronicity and Divinatory Techniques

This lecture will deal with Robert Fludd’s concept of the world as a musical cosmos, his controversy with Johannes Kepler and the disenchantment of the world; Jung’s concept of synchronicity as re-enchancement of the world; the role of synchronicity and divination in indigenous African healing systems.

Zurich Lecture Series Postlude

Practical Alchemy: The Alchemical Process Applied to the Work with Complexes

Jung saw alchemy as a process of physical and spiritual transformation (CW XIII, §139–40). What about the work with the lowly complex? Through a pictorial review of the processes of classical alchemy we will question to what extent the archetypal images depicted by this process can be applied to the analytic work with complexes.

Introduction to Psychological Trauma

An investigation into the history, symptoms and resulting cascade of physical effects set in motion by sustained deep suffering and resulting archaic defenses. Prerequisite for my trauma seminar in the next semester.

J.L. Herman: Trauma and Recovery, 2015; B. van der Kolk: The Body Keeps the Score.

o4 28 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Pictures

Kathrin Schaeppi, MS, MFA

Wednesday, Thursday & Friday

4 October | 15:00–16:45

5 October | 15:00–16:45

6 October | 15:00–16:45

Introduction to Jungian Picture Interpretation

What is the basic attitude and understanding when interpreting pictures through the lens of a Jungian analyst? We will look at individual pictures as well as series to see what they may reveal. How is drawing pictures incorporated into the analytical setting?

o6 30 Lecture - Religion & Psychology

Lena Måndotter, MA

Thursday

5 October | 17:00–18:45

Sound and Psyche: the Imaginal and Archetypal Realm of Music, Symbols and Songs

“Music should be an essential part of every analysis. Music reaches the deep archetypal material that we only sometimes reach in our own work with patients.”
C.G. Jung Speaking, p. 275.

The theme of this lecture is the artistic, therapeutic and transpersonal dimensions of sound, song and music. We learn to perceive psychological meaning in sounds and also the art of listening from a deeper place. When we pay attention to each subtle sound of psyche, we become witnesses to the unconscious in action. A short film on the mythology of song, filmed in the mountains of Greece, will serve as an introduction.

o4 33 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Pictures

Kathrin Schaeppi, MS, MFA

Tuesday

10 October | 13:00–14:45

Introduction to the ISAPZURICH Picture Collection

Get to know the ISAPZURICH Picture Collection. The purpose of the Picture Collection is the creation of an anonymized picture collection and database of material from clients who have been in analysis with a therapist or analyst trained in the tradition of C.G. Jung's analytical psychology. The aim, in addition to securing the artistic creations in both material and electronic form, is to make such valuable material available to ISAPZURICH analysts and students for learning, teaching and research purposes.

Riccardo Bernardini, PhD

Friday

“Eranos” Live at Foyer St. Anton, Zürich

“Eranos: A Retrospective Look at its Contribution to Analytical Psychology and a Future Glimpse into the Study of Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn’s Art”

The Eranos Conferences, now celebrating their 90th year (1933–2023), contributed to the development of C.G. Jung’s thought and the spread of Analytical Psychology. The visionary art of Eranos founder, Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn, derived in part from the practice of active imagination and increasingly the subject of interest by the international art world, admirably documents the close connection between her individuation process and her cultural work, the Eranos.

For details about the “Eranos” Live event please see the full-page flyer in this booklet.

o5 42 Lecture - Ethnology & Psychology

Penelope Yungblut, MA

Tuesday & Thursday

31 October | 13:00–14:45

2 November | 13:00–14:45

Culture, Identity, and the Self

We will explore to what extent our identity, attitudes, and expectations are embedded in our culture, and how encounters with other cultures may surprise us, open our eyes, stimulate our curiosity, and impact our sense of self. What can we learn and how may we use our experience of diverse traditions, norms, and values to expand and enhance our journey to the Self?

o8 32 Lecture - Developmental Psychology

Allan Guggenbühl, Dr. phil.

Tuesday

31 October | 17:00–18:45

7 November | 17:00–18:45

Stories and Play: Psychotherapy with Children and Adolescents

The course focuses on how to work with children and young adolescents suffering from anxiety, stress and bullying at school. It will present theoretical considerations of developmental stages as well as a methodology for treatment. It will also provide insights on how to relate to the child’s parents.

o6 45 Lecture - Religion & Psychology

Marco Della Chiesa, lic. phil.

Thursday

2 November | 10:00–11:45

Cultures and Rituals of Remembrance: Psychological Implications and Relevance

Remembrance of the dead is a universal practice. The lecture will examine various collective practices and discuss their psychological implications and relevance.

o8 47 Lecture - Developmental Psychology

Penelope Yungblut, MA

Tuesday & Thursday

7 November | 13:00–14:45

9 November | 13:00–14:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

Making a Good End

We will examine the challenges and developmental tasks asked of us by the Self when facing the end of life. What would “dying well” look like? How may we come to peace with leaving our lived and unlived lives?

o5 50 Lecture - Ethnology & Psychology

Lavinia Iuliana Tânculescu-Popa, PhD

Thursday

9 November | 15:00–16:45

Another Kind of Silence: Echoes of Collective Trauma

The course will discuss the cumulative trauma of a totalitarian regime that had the power to transmit echoes across generations. People whose voices had been silenced transmitted to their children fear, combined with a lack of hope, that they would never amount to anything themselves. Through the case studies presented, I illustrate the type of effects that such trauma can have on both parents and children who live in continuous confusion about what constitutes violence and what does not, what is acceptable and what is not, what identity means and at what cost.

o1 51 Open Seminar - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Heike Weis Hyder, FMH
Psychiatrie/Psychotherapie

Friday

10 November | 10:00–11:45

17 November | 10:00–11:45

The Anima in The Red Book - The Healing Power of Love

The concept of the Anima is occasionally criticized today as an old-fashioned term which should no longer be used. In The Red Book the unfolding relationship with the Anima demonstrates the importance and ‘pragmatic help’ of this ‘dimension’ to grow into a real, healing and loving connection with the Soul and life. Contemporary case material will illustrate the relevance of the concept today.

11 52 Lecture - Individuation

Irene Berkenbusch-Erbe, Dr. phil.

Friday

10 November | 13:00–14:45

Transgenerational Transmission of Trauma

In every family there are taboos and family secrets. But despite the silence, they are passed on to the following generations: the children and those born later feel them intuitively. Unprocessed psychological trauma can be passed on to the offspring in different forms with different effects; this can also be genetically detectable. Those affected often suffer from vague fears, depression or a loss of trust. Possibilities of knowing, processing and healing will be discussed on the basis of examples.

01 55 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Scott William Hyder, lic. phil.

Friday

17 November | 13:00–14:45

24 November | 13:00–14:45

Reflections on Archetypal Opposites of Destruction: Scylla & Charybdis in the 21st Century

For 3,000 years, Scylla and Charybdis have symbolized a polarity of dangers to safe navigation and served as a metaphoric warning for humankind. The voracious six-headed monster ashore contrasts with an abysmal whirlpool of annihilation. How can we witness these twin archetypes of destruction which threaten individuals and species alike even now?

Does safe passage between certain death of some, or extinction of all, even exist in current environmental and existential crises, political and social chaos? Or, is living with death essential for psychological initiation and maturation now, as it always has been?

03 59 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Myths & Fairy Tales

Susanna Bucher, Dr. sc. nat. ETH

Thursday

23 November | 13:00–14:45

30 November | 13:00–14:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

The Symbol of the Tree in Fairy Tales and Myths

What does the tree symbolize? We will look at fairy tales and myths from around the world as well as C.G. Jung's and M.-L. von Franz's writings on the symbol of the tree, from Cinderella to the world tree.

11 61 Lecture - Individuation

John Hill, MA

Friday

24 November | 17:00–18:45

1 December | 17:00–18:45

Nourishing Hope in the Face of Despair

We seem to be moving from crisis to crisis and looming over all is the climate crisis, threatening extinction on many levels. Through hope we enter a new dimension of time. Despair tells us that nothing will change; one can only expect more of the same. Hope can help us transcend those moments of suffering and restore the temporal dimensions of our human existence.

03 63 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Myths & Fairy Tales

Paul Wassmann, Dr. Scient.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday &
Friday

5 December | 13:00–14:45

6 December | 13:00–14:45

7 December | 13:00–14:45

The Hidden Pathways of Germanic Mythology: On Neglected, Demonized, Repulsed and Repressed
Archetypical Representations of the Original Germanic Culture

In the context of the Indo-European cultures, the lectures offer an overview of Germanic mythology, focusing on the old Germanic world view, the creation of the world, the dawn of gods and the psychological role of some of the most significant gods and goddesses. Much of what is called modernity is based on old Germanic culture and mythology. Connecting with hidden roots is an essential aspect of individuation. Particular attention will be given to female characters in Germanic mythology.
