AGAP • Gesellschaft für Diplomierte in Analytischer Psychologie

ISAPZURICH wurde 2004 von der AGAP gegründet, einer internationalen Berufsorganisation, die seit 1954 in Zürich ansässig ist. Die AGAP gehörte 1956 zu den Gruppen der Jungianer, die die Internationale Gesellschaft für Analytische Psychologie (IAAP) gegründet hat. Als IAAP-Gruppenmitglied mit Ausbildungsstatus sorgt AGAP für die IAAP-Akkreditierung der ISAP-Ausbildung. AGAP trägt somit dazu bei, die hohen professionellen Ausbildungs- und Ethikstandards des ISAP aufrechtzuerhalten - und qualifiziert alle Absolventinnen und Absolventen der ISAP-Diplomstudiengänge, über AGAP Mitglied der IAAP zu werden. Heute hat AGAP nahezu 400 Mitglieder in rund 30 Ländern weltweit. Da AGAP die juristische Person für ISAP ist, sind Spenden an ISAP, die über AGAP erfolgen, in der Schweiz steuerlich absetzbar.

Spenden an ISAP, die über die «Stiftung Jungian International Training Zurich» (JITZ) getätigt werden, sind in den USA steuerlich absetzbar.

AGAP • Association of Graduates in Analytical Psychology

ISAPZURICH was founded in 2004 by AGAP, an international professional organization that has been domiciled in Zürich since 1954. In 1956, AGAP was among the Jungian groups that founded the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP). As an IAAP Group Member with training status, AGAP provides IAAP accreditation for ISAP's training. AGAP thus helps to maintain ISAP's high professional training and ethical standards—and makes all graduates of ISAP's Diploma Programs eligible for membership in the IAAP through AGAP. Today, AGAP has nearly 400 members in some 30 countries world-wide. Because AGAP is the legal entity for ISAP, donations to ISAP made through AGAP are tax-deductible in Switzerland.

Donations to ISAP made through the foundation Jungian International Training Zurich (JITZ) are tax-deductible in the USA.

Kein Wunder, dass der westlichen Welt unbehaglich zumute ist, denn sie weiss nicht, wie sie der im Aufruhr befindlichen Unterwelt in die Hand spielt, und was ihr durch die Zerstörung des Numinosen verlorengegangen ist.

— C.G. Jung, CW 18/1, para 581

No wonder the Western world feels uneasy, for it does not know how much it plays into the hands of the uproarious underworld and what it has lost through the destruction of its numinosities.

— C.G. Jung, CW 18, para. 581

Archetypal Astrology and Alchemy as a Guide to Psychospiritual Transformation

Keiron Le Grice, PhD

Astrology was of lifelong interest to C.G. Jung, both professionally and personally. He employed it as an aid to his analytical work with his patients, and saw it as the “sum of all the psychological knowledge of antiquity.” The burgeoning interest in the field in the late nineteenth century and beyond was a compensatory response, Jung thought, to the rationality championed after the Enlightenment and to the decline of religion in the modern Western world. For astrology offers something the modern age is sorely lacking: the sense of participation in a cosmic order, in which individual lives—even the intimate depths of our personal experience—are meaningfully related to the universe at large, mapped by the shifting cycles and configurations of the planets.

Over the last thirty years, my work has helped to establish and develop an archetypal approach to astrology. At the same time, I have been especially interested in understanding experiences of deep psychospiritual transformation in the context of the evolution of consciousness and civilization. In this series of lectures, these two areas of interest are brought together. In the accompanying book, The Lion Will Become Man, I share details of my own experience of a period of psychological crisis and transition, which I approach chiefly through a Jungian understanding of alchemy. In the lectures, in reference to the book, I will then explain how one might use astrology to illuminate experiences of psychological transformation. The overarching aim is to convey something of the potential value of archetypal astrology as a cosmological perspective that can offer a source of mythic and psychological orientation for our lives.

“Eranos” Live

13:00–14:45

Lecture

Guest speaker: Dr. Riccardo Bernardini

Title: “Eranos: A Retrospective Look at its Contribution to Analytical Psychology and a Future Glimpse into the Study of Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn’s Art”

15:00–16:45

Performance

“Eranos”

The play takes place in August 1947 during the week-long Eranos Conference hosted annually by Olga Fröbe-Kapetyn. The stillness of the setting on the shores of Lago Maggiore near Ascona, Switzerland, and the beauty of the lake and surrounding mountains create a magical aura around the conference center. The Round Table under the trees and near the shore of the Lake is where all the action of the play takes place. To the left of the Table stands the carved stone with the inscription, Genio loci ignoto - “to the unknown genius of this place.”

Nancy Krieger, PhD

Tuesday

12 September | 13:00–14:45

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Analytic Process

This introductory course will review the analytic process looking specifically at what happens during the analytic session; what we do and what we do not do. We will look at how central the transcendent function is to the process and how it influences the knowledge and skills needed to work as an Analytical Psychologist.

01 03 Lecture

Tuesday

12 September | 15:00–16:45

Other areas of interest: 11 & 12

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Transference and Countertransference in the Therapeutic Relationship

A basic component of the therapeutic relationship is the process of transference and countertransference. Invisible factors evoke a mutual transformation. Analysts can be unconsciously affected by their patients; this is important for the diagnostic process. All transference projections, linked to personal experience, can activate the analyst's countertransference. This joint creation of patient and analyst will be discussed.

CH-course No. 3

Other areas of interest: 05

This course will be Zoomed out to the public.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

A Non-European View of the Analytical Relationship

The analytic process is essentially dialectical. The analysand needs the "Other (analyst)" in order to become more conscious. Depth psychology was founded on observation of the Western psyche. Just as one becomes conscious of oneself through the encounter with the Other, the analytical relationship can also be explored and illuminated from the perspective of a non-Western psyche.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Ego/Self Dynamics within the Analytic Field

Jung's notion of the Self as the center of the psyche orients any psychotherapeutic activity away from an exclusive emphasis upon ego solutions and towards a relationship with the deepest aspect of the patient's inner being or "soul". Jungian analysis is a dynamic interplay between the demands of the outer and inner worlds, enacted in the analytic field between analyst and analysand.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Relationship and Transference in Dream and Fantasy

A lecture dealing with the history of transference and counter-transference, both Freudian and Jungian, with vignettes on defence, projective-identification, mutual transference and archetypal transference.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Discovering Jung: Unraveling the Key Significances for Psychotherapy

Jungian psychology applies to a wide range of topics and challenges. This lecture will concentrate on the ideas which have proven to be helpful to understand and guide a therapeutic process.

The Red Book in Words

In contrast to the information conveyed by Jung's paintings and illustrations in The Red Book, the language and ideas contained in his reflections offer us a means for observing the development of his psychological thinking after his break with Freud. This seminar will also examine Jung's analyses in "The Psychology of the Unconscious" (1912), comparing and contrasting them with the insights he acquired from his "encounter with the unconscious".

Gaia, Psyche and Deep Ecology: Synergy and Consilience for Metanoia

Synergies between Jungian psychology, systems dynamics, Gaia theory, dual-aspect monism and deep ecology can prepare us to face the existential threat of the Anthropocene. The resulting transition from development to individuation in our personal psychology translates into an urgently needed metanoia away from our collective ecocidal anthropocentrism and denial through nostalgia, inertia and hubris. The resulting consilience lays the foundations of a radically different worldview with which to address global heating, the sixth mass extinction, and other unprecedented challenges of our time.

'As-If' Personality: Imposter Syndrome and Illusions in the Mirror

The 'as-if' person faces a conundrum to hide or expose the truth of who they are. Feelings of loss, curtailment, and alienation are prevalent yet concealed with glitzy ego, persona/imposter images. Intimacy and emotional presence are difficult. Those living 'as-if' are estranged from their true selves, hiding the shadow at the cost of their desires. There is a haunting sense of a lack of authenticity. Existence is singular. Very possibly we know these struggles as they are part of us.

Narcissus and Echo in the Current Era

How do we see the other if we do not see ourselves? The myth of Narcissus reveals the inner conflict and psychological distress of narcissists. The complexity beyond the ego/persona reveals lack of self-love seen in dreams and misattunements in relationships influenced from early parental absence. Subjects include aging, the influence of social media, and perfect body image. The unconscious incorporates the dissociated personality parts in the self, reflecting the multiplicity of the psyche.

Drawing Projections: Jung and Films

This seminar aims to explore psychological themes through the visual narrative structures of selected films. This semester we will focus on a rather regular therapy theme: Shame. We will use three films to discuss the personal and archetypal patterns of shame through the eye of the camera.

The films will be shown at ISAP and will be followed by a discussion led by the presenters. We wish to provide the opportunity of the collective experience of viewing a film together followed by the chance to share ideas and impressions.

The Anima in The Red Book - The Healing Power of Love

The concept of the Anima is occasionally criticized today as an old-fashioned term which should no longer be used. In The Red Book the unfolding relationship with the Anima demonstrates the importance and 'pragmatic help' of this 'dimension' to grow into a real, healing and loving connection with the Soul and life. Contemporary case material will illustrate the relevance of the concept today.

Reflections on Archetypal Opposites of Destruction: Scylla & Charybdis in the 21st Century

For 3,000 years, Scylla and Charybdis have symbolized a polarity of dangers to safe navigation and served as a metaphoric warning for humankind. The voracious six-headed monster ashore contrasts with an abysmal whirlpool of annihilation. How can we witness these twin archetypes of destruction which threaten individuals and species alike even now?

Does safe passage between certain death of some, or extinction of all, even exist in current environmental and existential crises, political and social chaos? Or, is living with death essential for psychological initiation and maturation now, as it always has been?

In the context of the Indo-European cultures, the lectures offer an overview of Germanic mythology, focusing on the old Germanic world view, the creation of the world, the dawn of gods and the psychological role of some of the most significant gods and goddesses. Much of what is called modernity is based on old Germanic culture and mythology. Connecting with hidden roots is an essential aspect of individuation. Particular attention will be given to female characters in Germanic mythology.

Pictures have a healing effect. They are symbols with a subjective meaning. One important aspect is the way in which a sense of space is projected onto the medium. The course will discuss the cumulative trauma of a totalitarian regime that had the power to transmit echoes across generations. Through the case studies presented, I illustrate the type of effects that such trauma can have on both parents and children who live in continuous confusion about what constitutes violence and what does not, what is acceptable and what is not, what identity means and at what cost.

We learn to perceive psychological meaning in sounds and also the art of listening from a deeper place. Enigma

Some forms of literature in particular offer experience of the liminal; they are potentially helpful for our work as analysts as we must be prepared to sit patiently, humbly, yet confidently, with uncertainty. Using primarily parables from various religious and cultural traditions, we will explore the transformation that can occur upon relinquishing the insistence of the ego standpoint and allow for deeper listening. The emergence of image and symbol lead to revitalised perception.

Attachment and Intersubjectivity in the Analytic Relationship

Some questions we will be pondering include: What purposes do these two systems of human relatedness serve in analysis? Why are discernment between and the overlap of them both important? How do they serve our own understanding of ourselves as well as that of our clients?

Stories and Play: Psychotherapy with Children and Adolescents

Calatonia—a form of subtle bodywork—was created by Dr. Sandor Petho after WW II. It can be a very helpful psychotherapeutic tool. Nourishing Hope in the Face of Despair

We seem to be moving from crisis to crisis and looming over all is the climate crisis, threatening extinction on many levels. Through hope we enter a new dimension of time. Despair tells us that nothing will change; one can only expect more of the same. Hope can help us transcend those moments of suffering and restore the temporal dimensions of our human existence.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Transference or Relationship: A False Dichotomy?

This lecture examines the give and take in the analytic discourse and what is revealed in the interactions between analyst and analysand.

Seminar on Practical Problems When Commencing and Terminating Analytical Work

The seminar is open to all Training and Diploma Candidates, including those who have previously attended. The aim is to give the candidates the tools to create the trustful atmosphere necessary for in-depth work and to avoid potential problems. A theoretical introduction will be followed by role play.

20 Training and Diploma Candidates

How We Work: The Jungian Practice of Psychotherapy

In each session two training analysts use one case vignette to show their considerations in working with the client, with a special focus on transference/countertransference. With: U.Ulmer, J.Savage, K.Casanova, K.Asper, I.Berkenbusch, P.Brutsche

16 Training and Diploma Candidates

Jungian Case Formulation: Analytic Practice in Service of Self

Case formulation is a theoretically based hypothesis about the etiology, diagnosis, and evolving treatment directions of any case from its initial session to its termination. This class will focus on the unique characteristics of case formulation in a Jungian analysis, focusing upon methods which facilitate a deeper relationship with the Self within the context of developmental considerations.

CIPBS - Resource Activation and Activation of new Chains of Associations through a Non-Linguistic Approach

CIPBS (Conflict, Imagination, Painting and Bilateral Stimulation) is a creative technique developed by C. Diegelmann for gentle conflict or trauma processing. A stressful situation will be transformed into a symbolic form, and will be processed step-by-step with tapping and the help of the unconscious.

In this experiential seminar we will learn the technique and have the opportunity to practice it in small groups.

This creative tool can easily be integrated in the analytical process.
