Traumdeutung nach C.G. Jung

- Träume überbringen uns Botschaften, die verstanden werden wollen. Sie reagieren auf Erleben und Gedanken aus dem Wachleben. Sie berichten von Gefühlen, die im Moment nicht wahrgenommen werden. Sie machen uns auf die tiefen Gründe für unser Verhalten aufmerksam.
- Ob bedrückend, verwirrend oder wunderschön, Träume sind eine heilsame und reichhaltige Quelle an Erkenntnissen über uns selbst.
- Die Träume haben ihre eigene Sprache; sie sprechen in Bildern ähnlich wie Märchen, Sagen und Religionen aller Zeiten. Wenn wir ihren Hinweisen und unseren Einfällen dazu nachgehen, werden verborgene Kräfte freigelegt.
- Welche Anregung will mir der Traum geben? Warum gerade jetzt?

“The lack of meaning in life is a soul-sickness whose full extent and full import our age has not as yet begun to comprehend.”

CG Jung, CW 8, § 815

When I started out in life, I wanted to understand how the real world functioned, so I studied physics. This got me into computers and telecommunications. Many years later I wanted to get out from behind the screen and understand how people functioned. So I studied Jung.
My current passion: the collective unconscious.

In these casual talks each semester, ISAP analysts offer glimpses into their personal approaches to Jungian analysis.

The 17th Jungian Odyssey
Annual Conference & Retreat

“You can never come to your self by building a meditation hut on top of Mount Everest; you will only be visited by your own ghosts and that is not individuation [...]. The self only exists inasmuch as you appear. [...] Not that you are, but that you do is the self. The self appears in your deeds, and deeds always mean relationship [...]”

Jung and Psychiatry: The Discovery of the Collective Unconscious

It is no coincidence that Jung chose psychiatry as his specialty upon completion of his medical studies; at this time he began his research on symbol formation and the collective unconscious. More than twenty-five years later, in his seminar, 'Introduction to Jungian Psychology: Notes of the Seminar on Analytical Psychology Given in 1925,' Jung describes his decision thus, "I told nobody that I intended to work out the unconscious phenomena of the psychoses, but that was my determination. I wanted to catch the intruders of the mind."

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Symbol: Key Tool and Vivifying Experience

Understood as an image that represents much more than its mere concrete form, the symbol opens a window onto the very roots of the world. It can be experienced as a revelation, but also used as a translation key. If becoming possessed by a symbol imprisons us, then entering into dialogue with it liberates energy. Thus, the symbolic equation is to depth psychology what the mathematical equation is to the natural sciences. It allows powerful analysis and forges deeply attuned solutions. To adopt a symbolic attitude is a truly vivifying experience.

Symbol: The Space between Emotion and Idea

We will look at the role symbols play in transforming emotions into thought — both physically and culturally — and how the use of symbols in a Jungian approach parallels this process, giving us access to new perspectives on our life path.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Why We Love Symbols — Always Elusive and Beyond Our Reach

Jung defines the symbol as “the essence and image of psychic energy”. We will explore what might sound abstract and examine what the elusiveness of symbolic images calls upon in us. We will look into the reasons why symbols can represent a powerful impulse toward a meaningful change in our lives — provided we are open to them. Examples of artistic creations will illustrate how artists make use of the evocative power of symbols.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Symbols and Transformation: The Meaning of Symbols within the Analytical Process

In this course we will explore four fundamental and essential areas of Jungian theory with regard to symbols:

- Symbolic Consciousness
- Symbolic Reality
- The Reality of Symbols
- Transformation through Symbols

05 12 Lecture - Ethnology & Psychology

Friday

8 March | 13:00–14:45

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Symbolism within Ethnology

We will be exploring the symbolic dimension of ethnic customs, rituals and behavior.

The Mountain that Turned into a Cathedral: Religious Dreams of an Unbeliever

This lecture tells the story of an unbeliever whose dreams became religious. Harald Pager (1923–1985) was born in German Sudetenland and served as a tank soldier in the German army in WWII when it invaded Russia. After the war he became a graphic designer and in 1955 emigrated to South Africa where he dedicated his life to documenting the rock art of the Bushpeople. This enormous documentation he considered “the great task of his life”. But many dreams he wrote down during that time in his Diary and Night-time Notes tell another story: his “real task” points to a religious quest.

Working with the Twists and Turns of Life

We suffer disappointments and disruptions in life which disturb the continuity we count on, thrusting us into loss, change, and the unknown against our will. We will explore how mourning emotional vicissitudes and ruptures in life allows us to live in the present with renewed vitality and a more integrated sense of self on the journey to individuation.

The Zofingia Lectures: The Background of Jung's Psychology

This lecture will go over some of the most important concepts, such as soul, the relativity of time and space, and the unio mystica, as presented by Jung in his Zofingia lectures. Even though these concepts were presented by Jung between 1896 and 1899, we will see how they remained important and useful throughout his personal and professional life.

04 20 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Pictures

Natalia Serebrennikova, PhD

Friday

8 March | 15:00–16:45

Alchemical Ways of Thinking: Stories in Images and Words

Alchemy tells stories of changings of substances, which are analogous to psychic contents. A close look at alchemical images reveals how important the material world can be for soul-making. These dream-like images resonate with both the psyche and the body and move them toward a greater integrity of a personality. In pictures or in words, alchemical descriptions have their own vocabulary, grammar, and style. These stories involve navigating both the collective 'roads' of culture and the 'off-road' unconscious nature of a person. To read: Hillman, J. (2009) Alchemical Psychology: Uniform Edition of the Writings of James Hillman, Vol. 5, Spring Publications.

01 23 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Harald Atmanspacher, Dr.

Wednesday

13 March | 10:00–11:45

20 March | 10:00–11:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Dual-Aspect Monism and the Deep Structure of Meaning

Dual-aspect monism is a metaphysical framework that provides a deeper understanding of the relationship of the mental and the physical. In particular, it emphasizes the challenging role of the concept of meaning as a fundamental feature of reality. The dual-aspect Pauli-Jung conjecture achieves a systematic account of the place of consciousness within an expanded concept of reality that includes psychophysically neutral archetypes and the unus mundus. A number of recent studies applying dual-aspect thinking to synchronistic and related exceptional experiences will also be discussed.

03 25 Lecture - Psychological Interpretation of Myths & Fairy Tales

Susanna Bucher, Dr. sc. nat. ETH

Wednesday

13 March | 15:00–16:45

A Kaleidoscope of Approaches to Fairy Tale Interpretation

Four ISAP analysts each present a fairy tale interpretation. Part 1: "The Golden Tree"

08 30 Lecture - Developmental Psychology

Lidar Shany, PhD

Friday

15 March | 10:00–11:45

15 March | 13:00–14:45

Erich Neumann's Developmental Relational Theory

On synthesizing Neumann's various writings, a cohesive archetypal developmental relational theory emerges. This lecture presents Neumann's theory of the different archetypal stages of psychological development from birth throughout life, to culminate in the advanced stages of the individuation process. The process, centered with the establishment of the ego-Self axis during early life and the primal relationship, plays a central role in later psychic health. The lecture will also suggest possible therapeutic applications of this theory to child and adult analysis.

10 31 Lecture - Psychopathology & Psychiatry

Nancy van den Berg Cook, PhD

Wednesday & Thursday

20 March | 13:00–14:45

21 March | 13:00–14:45

Myths of Origin and Alchemy Mirror the Biochemistry of our Nervous System: Psychic Health and Somatic Health
Follow the Same Laws

Through the lens of creation myths and operations of the alchemical opus, we will review the most fundamental biochemistry and physiology of our nervous system.

Participants will be amazed to see how various myths about the origins of human life actually reflect, in their imagery and symbolism, the chemical processes and properties required for life in our cells. In other words, our most basic psychological functions are subject to the same laws as our most basic biochemistry and physiology. Like creation myths, alchemy — a metaphor for psychological healing — also mirrors our body chemistry.

03 26 Lecture - Psychological
Interpretation of Myths & Fairy
Tales

Ulrike Bercher Baumgartner, MS

Wednesday

20 March | 15:00–16:45

A Kaleidoscope of Approaches to Fairy Tale Interpretation

Four ISAP analysts each present a fairy tale interpretation.

Part 2: fairy tale to be announced

01 34 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Allan Guggenbühl, Dr. phil.

Wednesday

27 March | 10:00–11:45

Ghosts from the Past: The Influence of Ancestors on the Psyche

Families have a past — an uncle who emigrated, a great-grandfather who fought in a war or an aunt who killed herself. Ancestors who did extraordinary things can be influential on their descendants. Stories are told in the family that influence one's values and one's psyche. In the lecture I will talk about these ghosts of the past and how one can deal with them.

03 27 Lecture - Psychological
Interpretation of Myths & Fairy
Tales

Ursula Ulmer, MA

Ursula Kübler, lic. phil.

Wednesday

3 April | 17:00–18:45

10 April | 17:00–18:45

17 April | 17:00–18:45

24 April | 17:00–18:45

8 May | 17:00–18:45

Main Concepts of Developmental Psychology

After an introduction and overview of the history of developmental psychological concepts, we will delve into the concepts of significant pioneers. Students are expected to contribute actively, with presentations or/and papers.

This course requires extra work between sessions.

11 40 Lecture - Individuation

Francisco Garcia, M Ed

Wednesday

10 April | 10:00–11:45

The Alchemical Process of Depression

Jung's fascination with alchemical symbolism and the unconscious provides us with the tools to understand our own psychological processes. A path is opened to transform the dark night of the soul into a meaningful, enlightening experience. In order to accomplish this, the ego must undergo its own death and rebirth.

07 43 Lecture - Association Experiment & Theory of Complexes

Nancy Krieger, PhD

Thursday

11 April | 13:00–14:45

18 April | 13:00–14:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

The Theory of Complexes

We are going to look at complexes from the point of view of dissociation, as Jung originally did. His doctoral dissertation and early work with Bleuler, Janet, Myers, and Flournoy all confirm this. Where do authentic movement and active imagination come from, if not from complexes? What implication does viewing complexes as the acting out of a dissociated state have for our work with trauma victims, our work with dreams? Complexes are absolutely central to all of Analytical Psychology.

12 46 Lecture - Practical Case

Irene Berkenbusch-Erbe, Dr. phil.

Friday

12 April | 15:00–16:45

Confronting Cultural Trauma

We will discuss cultural trauma, family experiences and their effects across generations with case examples.

o6 48 Lecture - Religion & Psychology

Jody Schlatter, Dr. med.

Wednesday

17 April | 13:00–14:45

Following the West Coast Spirit

Canadian artist and author Emily Carr was open to a variety of religions during her search for a way to express the spirit of the wild West Coast. Leaving her Anglican and Presbyterian Christian roots, she explored theosophy, the writings of Walt Whitman, and the beliefs of some of the West Coast First Nations through her extensive travels and deep friendship with a Coast Salish woman. Before failing health forced her to abandon her easel, Emily Carr was able to do what none of the famous 'Group of Seven' men had achieved: to capture the wild West Coast spirit in her paintings.

11 50 Lecture - Individuation

Jakob Lusensky, MSc

Friday

19 April | 15:00–16:45

Vox Dei: C.G Jung on the Voice of God

This lecture will involve an in-depth discussion of Jung's late essay "A Psychological View of Conscience" (CW 10) written in 1958. The purpose of this discussion is to come to a better understanding of Jung's view on conscience, the role of ethics in individuation, and how to differentiate the inner voice of God (Vox Dei) from other internalized voices.

The participants are expected to have read the text in order to partake in the discussion.

o1 52 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Andrew Fellows, PhD

Tuesday

23 April | 10:00–11:45

30 April | 10:00–11:45

7 May | 10:00–11:45

Gaia, Psyche and Deep Ecology: Synergy and Consilience for Metanoia

Synergies between Jungian psychology, systems dynamics, Gaia theory, dual-aspect monism, deep ecology and Iain McGilchrist's neurological, philosophical and scientific insights can help us to counter the existential threat of the Anthropocene. The transition from development to individuation in our personal psychology translates into an urgently needed metanoia away from our collective ecocidal hubris. The resulting consilience lays the foundations of a radically different worldview with which to address global heating, the sixth mass extinction, and other unprecedented challenges of our time.

11 53 Open Seminar - Individuation

Margot Estabrook Stienstra, lic. phil.

Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday

23 April | 13:00–14:45

24 April | 13:00–14:45

25 April | 13:00–14:45

Self Cultivation and Cultivation of the Self:

Intersecting Planes — Confucius, Chuang Tzu, and C.G. Jung

Our Zeitgeist is confronted with unprecedented population explosion and globalization, characterized by multiple intersections of perspectives and value systems. This evolution can only constitute true growth when we can reconcile the compounding challenges to our ecosystem, beginning with the individual. Ecopsychology is dedicated to this need. Two classical Chinese elders — Kong Qiu (Confucius) and Chuang Tzu — proffer complementary attitudes and approaches. Jung's Analytical Psychology offers a method.

05 54 Lecture - Ethnology & Psychology

Nancy Krieger, PhD

Thursday

25 April | 15:00–16:45

Cultural Complexes

Not only people have complexes; the collective can also be said to have complexes, both positive and negative, conscious and unconscious. I will extend the concepts presented in the lecture "The Theory of Complexes" (07 43) as they apply to a collective. You are encouraged to think about your own culture and reflect on to what extent your past history may have been influenced by a cultural complex.

Attendance at the lecture 07 43 is highly recommended.

01 57 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Sulagna Sengupta, M.A.

Thursday

2 May | 13:00–14:45

Animus, Psyche and Culture: A Jungian Revision

This course is a post-Jungian reading of the animus and its lived experience in culture. It presents the contra-sexual animus as not just an inner archetypal figure, but also one that is in dynamic relation with the environment. In close ties with culture, the animus occupies a liminal realm — a subjective inner world as well as an outer, social. Inner and outer worlds are conceived as not two separate realms, but fluid, interactive spaces in which the phenomenology of the animus may be discerned.

Friday

3 May | 15:00–16:45

Decolonizing Jung: The Notion of the Cultural Other in Jung-India History

Jung's history with India spanned several decades of the early 1900s and includes his study of Indian texts, meetings and correspondence with Indians, his journey to India in 1937–38, lectures in East-West forums and close links with Oriental scholars from whom he gained insights and directions about India. This history places Jung in a unique position, as one who transcended geographical and cultural boundaries in formulating concepts about the unconscious. It reveals his encounter with 'the other' in a cultural context, significant for doing psychological work today in decolonized and multicultural worlds.

Weiser Mann, Hexe, Mutter, Vater: Übertragungen und Gegenübertragungen in der Psychotherapie

Therapien leben von der Beziehungsqualität zum Therapeuten. Doch wie erkennen wir die Übertragungen und unsere Gegenübertragung? Wie kann man sie in die therapeutische Reflexion einbringen? Welches sind die Gefahren?

10 67 Lecture - Psychopathology & Psychiatry

Richard Blennerhassett, Dr

Friday

17 May | 10:00–11:45

17 May | 13:00–14:45

Bipolar Disorder: An Historical and Clinical Perspective

Carl Jung, as a young psychiatrist at the Burghölzli Psychiatric Clinic, published a paper 'On Manic Mood Disorder' in 1903. It provided a vivid clinical description of mania and referred to the feeling tone and the primacy of emotion, rather than the primacy of the intellect in shaping behaviour. This idea anticipates Jung's complex theory.

This lecture will explore the historical background to the diagnosis of Manic Depressive Psychosis, later reformulated as Bipolar Disorder. The clinical aspects of this major psychiatric condition and its current treatment will be outlined alongside examining the condition's links with creativity.

11 68 Lecture - Individuation

Suzanne Van Oosten, MA

Friday

17 May | 15:00–16:45

Introduction to Voice Dialogue: A Technique for Giving Voice to Different Parts of Ourselves

This introduction presents Jungian analyst Hal Stone's theory on voice dialogue. Voice dialogue is a technique which aims at giving a voice to the many selves inside us. Voice dialogue makes it possible to express parts of ourselves, our various points of view, opinions and desires in an experimental and playful way.

After a review of the theory and method of voice dialogue, we will look closely at the question of how it can be of value in Jungian analysis.

08 69 Lecture - Developmental Psychology

Allan Guggenbühl, Dr. phil.

Tuesday

21 May | 10:00–11:45

21 May | 13:00–14:45

John Desteian, JD, DPsy

Tuesday

21 May | 15:00–16:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Jungian Odyssey Prelude

Godfather Death

This lecture will interpret the Grimm Brother's fairy tale "Godfather Death" in the context of the analytic relationship of transference and counter-transference, with amplifications from alchemy, mythology and other fairy tales.

o6 71 Lecture - Religion & Psychology

Andreas Schweizer, Dr. theol.

Thursday & Friday

23 May | 10:00–11:45

24 May | 10:00–11:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Jungian Odyssey Prelude

“Giving full expression to nature is a constant violation of nature” (C.G. Jung, Letters to Hedy Wyss, p. 53)

This lecture provides an introduction to C.G. Jung’s letters to the artist and analysand Hedy Wyss, a unique testimony to his sparkling spirit; it was first published in 2023. Here we see the compassionate and deeply human side of Jung. He writes neither scientifically nor cautiously, but quite spontaneously. He mentions his suffering from various physical ailments. At the same time he struggles to maintain the integrity of the analytical relationship and the veracity of love. See: C.G. Jung: Letters to Hedy Wyss 1936 – 1956. Edited and with a Commentary by Andreas Schweizer, Daimon, 2023.

11 72 Lecture - Individuation

Penelope Yungblut, MA

Thursday

23 May | 13:00–14:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Jungian Odyssey Prelude

Living a Creative Life

Jung encourages us to make of our life something creative. We will explore what that might look like. What would be asked of us? What are the hallmarks and examples of such a life? How can creativity in life be nurtured?

o1 73 Lecture - Fundamentals of Analytical Psychology

Phil Goss, PhD

Thursday

23 May | 15:00–16:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Jungian Odyssey Prelude

Anima and Animus as Gendered Soul: Identity, Diversity and Plurality in the Consulting Room and in Daily Life

We will consider the evolving relevance of Jung’s contrasexual formulation. In particular, we will address the challenge of marrying Jung’s initial discovery of the gendered soul to the flowering of plurality in contemporary presentations of sexuality and gender. Using an energetic model for understanding the subtle workings of anima and animus, we can better work with clinical presentations as well as deal with interpersonal and intrapsychic dynamics in daily life.

Murray Stein, PhD

Friday

24 May | 13:00–14:45

On-site & Live on Zoom

Jungian Odyssey Prelude

The Legacy of C.G. Jung

A lecture with discussion about the legacy of Jung’s work for the contemporary world. A question to be considered is: what are the fundamental values of Jungian psychology? The lecture will propose three areas for consideration. Discussion will follow.
