AGAP • Gesellschaft für Diplomierte in Analytischer Psychologie

ISAPZURICH wurde 2004 von der AGAP gegründet, einer internationalen Berufsorganisation, die seit 1954 in Zürich ansässig ist. Die AGAP gehörte 1956 zu den Gruppen der Jungianer, die die Internationale Gesellschaft für Analytische Psychologie (IAAP) gegründet hat. Als IAAP-Gruppenmitglied mit Ausbildungsstatus sorgt AGAP für die IAAP-Akkreditierung der ISAP-Ausbildung. AGAP trägt somit dazu bei, die hohen professionellen Ausbildungs- und Ethikstandards des ISAP aufrechtzuerhalten—und qualifiziert alle Absolventinnen und Absolventen der ISAP-Diplomstudiengänge, über AGAP Mitglied der IAAP zu werden. Heute hat AGAP nahezu 400 Mitglieder in rund 30 Ländern weltweit. Da AGAP die juristische Person für ISAP ist, sind Spenden an ISAP, die über AGAP erfolgen, in der Schweiz steuerlich absetzbar.

Spenden an ISAP, die über die Stiftung «Jungian International Training Zurich» (JITZ) getätigt werden, sind in den USA steuerlich absetzbar.

AGAP • Association of Graduates in Analytical Psychology

ISAPZURICH was founded in 2004 by AGAP, an international professional organization that has been domiciled in Zürich since 1954. In 1956, AGAP was among the Jungian groups that founded the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP). As an IAAP Group Member with training status, AGAP provides IAAP accreditation for ISAP's training. AGAP thus helps to maintain ISAP's high professional training and ethical standards—and makes all graduates of ISAP's Diploma Programs eligible for membership in the IAAP through AGAP. Today, AGAP has nearly 400 members in some 30 countries world-wide. Because AGAP is the legal entity for ISAP, donations to ISAP made through AGAP are tax-deductible in Switzerland.

Donations to ISAP made through the foundation Jungian International Training Zurich (JITZ) are tax-deductible in the USA.

Kooperation mit dem C.G. Jung-Institut Stuttgart

Die Studierenden der beiden Institute können an allen Veranstaltungen des Semesterprogramms beider Institute kostenlos teilnehmen, die Veranstaltungen werden gegenseitig anerkannt.

Bitte tragen Sie Ihre Teilnahme entsprechend (Angabe von Thema, Stundenzahl) in Ihr Studienbuch/Testatheft ein.

"The lack of meaning in life is a soul-sickness whose full extent and full import our age has not as yet begun to comprehend."

CG Jung, CW 8, § 815

Thursday, 25 April • 17:00–18:45

Nancy Krieger, PhD

When I started out in life, I wanted to understand how the real world functioned, so I studied physics. This got me into computers and telecommunications. Many years later I wanted to get out from behind the screen and understand how people functioned. So I studied Jung.
My current passion: the collective unconscious.

In these casual talks each semester, ISAP analysts offer glimpses into their personal approaches to Jungian analysis.

Frühlingssemester 2024
Dienstag, 27. Februar – Samstag, 1. Juni

Alle Vorlesungen und Offenen Seminare sind für die Öffentlichkeit zugänglich. Seminare und Fallkolloquien sind für ISAP-Kandidat/innen reserviert. Wir ermutigen Sie, Kursbewertungen über unser Online-Formular einzureichen.

Alle Angaben in diesem Programmheft sind korrekt bei Drucklegung. Voraussichtlich werden alle Kurse vor Ort im ISAP-Gebäude stattfinden, mit Ausnahme einiger Kolloquien, deren Veranstaltungsort in der Kursbeschreibung angegeben ist. Zusätzlich werden ausgewählte Kurse via Zoom übertragen, was ebenfalls in der Kursbeschreibung aufgeführt ist. Informationen zu Zoom-Veranstaltungen werden auf der ISAP-Website angezeigt.

Bei Seminaren und Kolloquien werden die angemeldeten Teilnehmer/innen direkt von der jeweils verantwortlichen Kursleitung über Änderungen informiert. Bei allen anderen Kursen gibt die ISAP-Website Auskunft über Änderungen (<https://www.isapzurich.com/de>). Konsultieren Sie diese Website vor jeder solchen Veranstaltung im Hinblick auf allfällige Änderungen.

Spring Semester 2024
Tuesday, 27. February – Saturday, 1. June

All Lectures and Open Seminars are open to the public. Seminars and Case Colloquia are reserved for ISAP candidates. We encourage you to submit course evaluations through our online form.

All dates in this booklet are correct at the time of issue. It is planned that all courses take place live at ISAP, except certain colloquia for which the location is indicated in the course description. Additionally, some courses have been selected to be broadcast (Zoomed out). This is also indicated in the course description. Zoom information will be on the ISAP website.

For seminars and colloquia, their respective leaders are responsible for notifying changes directly to registered students. Changes to all other courses will be indicated on the ISAP website (<https://www.isapzurich.com/en>). Check this site before each such course for the latest changes.

Jung and Psychiatry: The Discovery of the Collective Unconscious

It is no coincidence that Jung chose psychiatry as his specialty upon completion of his medical studies; at this time he began his research on symbol formation and the collective unconscious. More than twenty-five years later, in his seminar, 'Introduction to Jungian Psychology: Notes of the Seminar on Analytical Psychology Given in 1925,' Jung describes his decision thus, "I told nobody that I intended to work out the unconscious phenomena of the psychoses, but that was my determination. I wanted to catch the intruders of the mind."

Symbol: Key Tool and Vivifying Experience

Understood as an image that represents much more than its mere concrete form, the symbol opens a window onto the very roots of the world. It can be experienced as a revelation, but also used as a translation key. If becoming possessed by a symbol imprisons us, then entering into dialogue with it liberates energy. Thus, the symbolic equation is to depth psychology what the mathematical equation is to the natural sciences. It allows powerful analysis and forges deeply attuned solutions. To adopt a symbolic attitude is a truly vivifying experience.

Dual-Aspect Monism and the Deep Structure of Meaning

Dual-aspect monism is a metaphysical framework that provides a deeper understanding of the relationship of the mental and the physical. In particular, it emphasizes the challenging role of the concept of meaning as a fundamental feature of reality. The dual-aspect Pauli-Jung conjecture achieves a systematic account of the place of consciousness within an expanded concept of reality that includes psychophysically neutral archetypes and the unus mundus. A number of recent studies applying dual-aspect thinking to synchronistic and related exceptional experiences will also be discussed.

Drawing Projections: Jung and Films

The seminar aims to explore psychological themes through the visual narrative structures of selected films. We will focus on an important theme of analytical psychology and therapy: Persona. We will use three films to discuss the personal and archetypal patterns of the persona through the eye of the camera.

The films will be shown at ISAP and will be followed by a discussion led by the presenters. We wish to provide the opportunity of the collective experience of viewing a film together followed by the chance to share ideas and impressions.

Families have a past — an uncle who emigrated, a great-grandfather who fought in a war or an aunt who killed herself. Ancestors who did extraordinary things can be influential on their descendants. Stories are told in the family that influence one's values and one's psyche. In the lecture I will talk about these ghosts of the past and how one can deal with them.

Gaia, Psyche and Deep Ecology: Synergy and Consilience for Metanoia

Synergies between Jungian psychology, systems dynamics, Gaia theory, dual-aspect monism, deep ecology and Iain McGilchrist's neurological, philosophical and scientific insights can help us to counter the existential threat of the Anthropocene. The transition from development to individuation in our personal psychology translates into an urgently needed metanoia away from our collective ecocidal hubris. The resulting consilience lays the foundations of a radically different worldview with which to address global heating, the sixth mass extinction, and other unprecedented challenges of our time.

Animus, Psyche and Culture: A Jungian Revision

This course is a post-Jungian reading of the animus and its lived experience in culture. It presents the contra-sexual animus as not just an inner archetypal figure, but also one that is in dynamic relation with the environment. In close ties with culture, the animus occupies a liminal realm — a subjective inner world as well as an outer, social. Inner and outer worlds are conceived as not two separate realms, but fluid, interactive spaces in which the phenomenology of the animus may be discerned.

The Mountain that Turned into a Cathedral: Religious Dreams of an Unbeliever

This lecture tells the story of an unbeliever whose dreams became religious. Harald Pager (1923–1985) was born in German Sudetenland and served as a tank soldier in the German army in WWII when it invaded Russia. After the war he became a graphic designer and in 1955 emigrated to South Africa where he dedicated his life to documenting the rock art of the Bushpeople. This enormous documentation he considered “the great task of his life”. But many dreams he wrote down during that time in his Diary and Night-time Notes tell another story: his “real task” points to a religious quest.

Why We Love Symbols — Always Elusive and Beyond Our Reach

Jung defines the symbol as “the essence and image of psychic energy”. We will explore what might sound abstract and examine what the elusiveness of symbolic images calls upon in us. We will look into the reasons why symbols can represent a powerful impulse toward a meaningful change in our lives — provided we are open to them. Examples of artistic creations will illustrate how artists make use of the evocative power of symbols.

Alchemical Ways of Thinking: Stories in Images and Words

Alchemy tells stories of changings of substances, which are analogous to psychic contents. A close look at alchemical images reveals how important the material world can be for soul-making. These dream-like images resonate with both the psyche and the body and move them toward a greater integrity of a personality. In pictures or in words, alchemical descriptions have their own vocabulary, grammar, and style. These stories involve navigating both the collective 'roads' of culture and the 'off-road' unconscious nature of a person. To read: Hillman, J. (2009) Alchemical Psychology: Uniform Edition of the Writings of James Hillman, Vol. 5, Spring Publications.

Decolonizing Jung: The Notion of the Cultural Other in Jung-India History

Jung’s history with India spanned several decades of the early 1900s and includes his study of Indian texts, meetings and correspondence with Indians, his journey to India in 1937–38, lectures in East-West forums and close links with Oriental scholars from whom he gained insights and directions about India. This history places Jung in a unique position, as one who transcended geographical and cultural boundaries in formulating concepts about the unconscious. It reveals his encounter with ‘the other’ in a cultural context, significant for doing psychological work today in decolonized and multicultural worlds.

“I feel that from now on music should be an essential part of every analysis. Music reaches the deep archetypal material that we can only sometimes reach in our analytical work with patients.” C.G. Jung Letters, Vol. 1, pg. 542.

This is an experiential introduction to song and soul from a Jungian perspective. No singing skills are required to take part; instead we learn about the vocal components through simple and playful exercises with non-judgemental minds. “Giving full expression to nature is a constant violation of nature” (C.G. Jung, Letters to Hedy Wyss, p. 53)

This lecture provides an introduction to C.G. Jung's letters to the artist and analysand Hedy Wyss, a unique testimony to his sparkling spirit; it was first published in 2023. Here we see the compassionate and deeply human side of Jung. He writes neither scientifically nor cautiously, but quite spontaneously. He mentions his suffering from various physical ailments. At the same time he struggles to maintain the integrity of the analytical relationship and the veracity of love. See: C.G. Jung: *Letters to Hedy Wyss 1936 – 1956. The Theory of Complexes

We are going to look at complexes from the point of view of dissociation, as Jung originally did. His doctoral dissertation and early work with Bleuler, Janet, Myers, and Flournoy all confirm this. Where do authentic movement and active imagination come from, if not from complexes? What implication does viewing complexes as the acting out of a dissociated state have for our work with trauma victims, our work with dreams? Complexes are absolutely central to all of Analytical Psychology.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Symbol: The Space between Emotion and Idea

We will look at the role symbols play in transforming emotions into thought — both physically and culturally — and how the use of symbols in a Jungian approach parallels this process, giving us access to new perspectives on our life path.

The Unknown Maiden

Persephone is invariably linked to Demeter and seen as an integral part of the mother-daughter bond. Her abduction by Hades, ruler of the Underworld, is usually becried as rape, a forced rupture. Jung and Kerenyi (CW 9/1) elevate the daughter of Demeter to Kore and point to her decisive role in the development of the feminine.

This seminar will concentrate on the unknown maiden, who is also Persephone, queen of the Underworld, in her own right. We will explore the lesser known aspects of the myth and, navigating the depths of this archetypal manifestation, get to know the unknown maiden.

Erich Neumann's Developmental Relational Theory

On synthesizing Neumann's various writings, a cohesive archetypal developmental relational theory emerges. This lecture presents Neumann's theory of the different archetypal stages of psychological development from birth throughout life, to culminate in the advanced stages of the individuation process. The process, centered with the establishment of the ego-Self axis during early life and the primal relationship, plays a central role in later psychic health. The lecture will also suggest possible therapeutic applications of this theory to child and adult analysis.

Myths of Origin and Alchemy Mirror the Biochemistry of our Nervous System: Psychic Health and Somatic Health Follow the Same Laws

Through the lens of creation myths and operations of the alchemical opus, we will review the most fundamental biochemistry and physiology of our nervous system.

Participants will be amazed to see how various myths about the origins of human life actually reflect, in their imagery and symbolism, the chemical processes and properties required for life in our cells. In other words, our most basic psychological functions are subject to the same laws as our most basic biochemistry and physiology. Like creation myths, alchemy — a metaphor for psychological healing — also mirrors our body chemistry.

Bipolar Disorder: An Historical and Clinical Perspective

Carl Jung, as a young psychiatrist at the Burghölzli Psychiatric Clinic, published a paper 'On Manic Mood Disorder' in 1903. It provided a vivid clinical description of mania and referred to the feeling tone and the primacy of emotion, rather than the primacy of the intellect in shaping behaviour. This idea anticipates Jung's complex theory.

This lecture will explore the historical background to the diagnosis of Manic Depressive Psychosis, later reformulated as Bipolar Disorder. The clinical aspects of this major psychiatric condition and its current treatment will be outlined alongside examining the condition's links with creativity.

The Alchemical Process of Depression

Jung's fascination with alchemical symbolism and the unconscious provides us with the tools to understand our own psychological processes. The Alchemical Process of Depression

Attendance of the lecture of the same name is required to attend this seminar.

Carl Jung was an advocate of depression as a positive force. He transformed his own struggle with depression during his breakup with Freud. This personal confrontation with the unconscious led Jung to the conclusion that depression, as all other psychological symptomatology, has a core of meaning — a latent purpose — if one manages to understand it.

In small groups, we shall be exploring and discussing Jung's idea that depression has a latent purpose.

Self Cultivation and Cultivation of the Self:

Intersecting Planes — Confucius, Chuang Tzu, and C.G. Jung

Our Zeitgeist is confronted with unprecedented population explosion and globalization, characterized by multiple intersections of perspectives and value systems. This evolution can only constitute true growth when we can reconcile the compounding challenges to our ecosystem, beginning with the individual. Ecopsychology is dedicated to this need. Two classical Chinese elders — Kong Qiu (Confucius) and Chuang Tzu — proffer complementary attitudes and approaches. Jung's Analytical Psychology offers a method.

Introduction to Voice Dialogue: A Technique for Giving Voice to Different Parts of Ourselves

This introduction presents Jungian analyst Hal Stone's theory on voice dialogue. Voice dialogue is a technique which aims at giving a voice to the many selves inside us. Voice dialogue makes it possible to express parts of ourselves, our various points of view, opinions and desires in an experimental and playful way.

After a review of the theory and method of voice dialogue, we will look closely at the question of how it can be of value in Jungian analysis.

The Collective Princess and Her Prince Charming With Feet of Clay: A Brief Case History of Loss as Initiation

What happens when someone is a product of elite privilege, education and conditioning, combined with deep insecurity, early material alienation, and trauma? If one's own family is found wanting, and identity is so tenuous that it is grafted upon the boyfriend or future husband to rescue, protect and save one from fears of financial concern, what will this Prince look like? Prince Charming or Bluebeard — or both?

What if you only love him because he idolizes you and you realize that if you don't worship his image, he doesn't love you anymore? If you're hurt, do you leave him, or stay?

He has written a number of publications including Jung: A Complete Introduction (Hodder and Stoughton 2015) and has published on topics including gender, education, and the sublime. Phil has a private practice in Birmingham and also teaches on Jungian training in the UK.

Rudolf Högger, Dr.phil.

Teaching course 11 49

Rudolf Högger, Dr. phil., studied history, theology and depth psychology. He spent his professional career in International Cooperation and as a lecturer at the ETH in Zürich, focussing on the psychological, cultural and religious backgrounds of so-called “development”. He is particularly interested in the ecological implications of civilisations on their environment. He has done extensive research and has published several books and articles pertaining to that field. Contact: rm.hoegger@gmail.com

Jakob Lusensky, MSc

Teaching course 11 50

Jakob Lusensky is a Jungian psychoanalyst with a private practice in Berlin, Germany. He is the host of the podcast “Psychology & The Cross”. He is also a co-founder of Berlin Psychoanalytic, an organization whose mission is to make psychoanalytic ideas available to everyone.

Sulagna Sengupta, M.A.

Teaching courses 01 57, 05 59

Sulagna Sengupta is a Jungian scholar based in Bangalore, India. Her first book Jung in India (2013) was a pioneering study on Jung’s history with India, based on original archival research. She has been involved in Jungian education and research for over two decades and has lectured in India, the USA, Switzerland, Brazil, Russia and South Africa. She is a member of the International Association of Jungian Studies and editorial committee member of the IAJS. Her website is: <https://jung-india.org>

Natalia Serebrennikova, PhD

Teaching course 04 20

Natalia Serebrennikova, PhD, is a training analyst and supervisor for the RSAP. Since 2016 she has been living and working in Vienna, Austria. She applies sandplay, art-therapy and narrative techniques in her clinical work. Her research interests are individual and social dreaming and how complexes influence individuals in their mind-body wholeness. She has translated and edited Russian publications of more than twenty books on analytical psychology and psychoanalysis. Contact: jungian-health@outlook.com

Lidar Shany, PhD

Teaching course 08 30

Dr. Lidar Shany's MA/PhD are from Pacifica Graduate Institute; her dissertation research focused on the developmental, relational, and meta-psychological aspects of Erich Neumann's work. Dr. Shany is a Jungian analyst from Kusnacht, Zurich; she lectures and teaches Neumann's theory in the Jungian institutes around the world. Dr. Shany, who is certified in Infant Observation, specializes in the primal relationship and dyadic work with mothers and their infants. Contact: dr.lidarshany@gmail.com

Suzanne Van Oosten, MA

Teaching course 11 68

I am a Jungian analyst, psychologist and coach in private practice in the Netherlands. I have been using voice dialogue for individuals and teams since 2012. After studying psychology and organizational change management, in 1999 I started working as a consultant, trainer and coach. Since becoming a Jungian analyst, I have been bringing Jungian psychology to the corporate world.
